

Find what's exposed, or write it down.

Haven is an app you install on your computer. It finds tax returns, IDs, passwords, and old shared links left unprotected in your email, cloud drives, and files. When you need a document instead, it turns your mail into a signed record you can hand to someone.

THE PRIVACY PROMISE

Your files stay on this computer.

Most "privacy" products copy your mailbox to their servers. Haven does not. The scan runs on your computer. Findings stay in an encrypted store on the device. Fixes can be undone for 30 days.

- 01 You install an app. The work runs on this computer.
- 02 Haven never gets a copy of your inbox or your drive.
- 03 Almost everything is decided on the device. The rare case that isn't sends a short, stripped excerpt to a machine Haven owns (listed in the app, never stored, never used for training).
- 04 Fixes are reversible for 30 days.

THE JOB

Scan What is exposed?

Tax returns, IDs, passwords, medical files, and old "anyone with the link" shares sit in Gmail, Outlook, Drive, OneDrive, Dropbox, and folders on this computer, often for years.

Haven answers three questions:

- What sensitive data do I have?
- Where does it live?
- What is the safe next step?

You leave with a finding list you clean up on this machine. First five findings are always free.

WHEN YOU NEED A DOCUMENT

Records What exists, who needs it?

A scan is for you. A record is for someone else. Same computer, different ending: a signed Word document, saved where you choose, checkable later at havenprotect.app/verify. The checker does not upload the file.

Trace A dispute, in order: landlord, insurer, employer, contractor.

Settle After a death: one mailbox in, one Estate Record out.

Prepare The same sweep on your mail, while you can still correct it.

The mail that produced the record is not copied to Haven.

KEEPING TRACK

Subscriptions What renews?

Every subscription in your inbox, and where to cancel it. It ends in a working list, not a signed document.

What renews, when, and for how much, as the email printed it

The sender's own cancel page

A cancellation email drafted for you to send

Haven never signs in anywhere and never cancels for you.

AT A GLANCE
